

Greetings and respect,

To the esteemed admissions committee,

Siavash Chavoshi is an academic affiliated with the University of Tehran, specializing in international relations and security studies. His research primarily focuses on themes of ontological security, national identity, and recognition within the global political landscape. Notable works include his forthcoming study on "Ontological Insecurity and the Decline of the UK Empire," which examines national identity during the New Labour government, and a co-authored article on China's rise and its implications for international recognition. Chavoshi has also contributed extensively through reviews of significant political science literature in reputable journals, addressing topics such as identity politics and the dynamics of global security. His work enhances the understanding of how states navigate their identities and security in a changing world.

I hereby certify that Dr. Siavash Chavoshi, who completed both his Master's and Doctoral studies at the University of Tehran, has consistently been one of the most diligent, talented, and motivated students in the Global Studies program. He has successfully completed several courses under my supervision, excelling as one of the top students in all of them.

Based on my knowledge of his valuable social character, I strongly recommend him for a faculty position at leading universities in this country.

I have no doubt that his extraordinary talents will flourish in the near future, driven by his perseverance, hard work.

With warm regards,

Dr. Mohammadreza Saeidabadi, Associate professor

Department of World Studies - British Studies

University of Tehran