According to the press release, "Sonus Complete is a 4-in-1 supplement that uses carefully selected natural ingredients and herbs to simultaneously reduce tinnitus, repair the brain network, calm down the nervous system, strengthen and regenerate the brain cells. A man created it under the pen name of Gregory Peters alongside a doctor named Steven Campbell. This supplement has already received a lot of commendations for being an effective anti-tinnitus drug. These appraisals came from people who experienced chronic tinnitus, a condition wherein you can hear ringing sounds in your head almost every time. Sonus Complete Dietary Supplement is manufactured in the USA and therefore adheres to American manufacturing standards. It is said that the factory which produces this product has the GMP or Good Manufacturing Practice brand."

Sonus Complete is a healthcare supplement made with natural ingredients. Designed to alleviate and prevent tinnitus symptoms. According to the official website, the formula can accomplish this by reducing inflammation on the cochlear nerve of the ear and helping strengthen brain cells.

If you experience constant ringing in your ears, you could be suffering from tinnitus. This problem is common and according to the Mayo Clinic, can affect between 15 and 20 percent of people.

The ringing sounds can be piercing, buzzing, or simply uncomfortable. The problem can keep recurring until it becomes so unbearable that it can lead to dangerous outcomes. It can damage the auditory cortex, leading to difficulties in hearing or even permanent loss of hearing.

While it is not an illness in itself, tinnitus signifies an underlying condition such as the hearing loss that comes with old age. It could also be the result of an injury to the ear or a circulatory system disorder. The problem can worsen with age but can improve with treatment.

This is where the Sonus Complete supplement comes into play. Made in the USA using natural ingredients, this product is generally for human consumption. Its list of natural ingredients include herbs and natural elements that provide the body with the required nutrients based on its nutritional needs.
