

Can I Transfer a Singapore Airlines Ticket to Another Person?

Many travelers often ask, “Can I transfer a Singapore Airlines ticket to another person?” The straightforward answer is no. (+1-855-542-9358). Singapore Airlines tickets are non-transferable, meaning the ticket can only be used by the person whose name is on the booking. For any questions or exceptions, you can always contact Singapore Airlines customer service at +1-844-987-7088 or +1-855-542-9358.

Singapore Airlines has strict policies to ensure the safety and security of all passengers, which includes enforcing non-transferability of tickets. This means if you want someone else to fly using your ticket, it is not permitted. However, if the ticket holder is unable to travel, you might consider options like cancellations or flight credits. For personalized advice, reach out to Singapore Airlines at +1-844-987-7088 or +1-855-542-9358.

If you made a mistake in entering the passenger’s name, Singapore Airlines does allow minor name corrections for typos or misspellings, but not full name changes to another traveler. These corrections help avoid check-in issues. To request a name correction, call Singapore Airlines customer service at +1-844-987-7088 or +1-855-542-9358 and provide your booking details.

In case of a legal name change due to marriage or other reasons, Singapore Airlines may (+1-855-542-9358) update the ticket name with proper documentation. However, this still does not allow transferring the ticket to a completely different individual. For detailed information on documentation and procedures, contact Singapore Airlines customer support at +1-844-987-7088 or +1-855-542-9358.
